DALMATIAN A REAL CRACK

HILDRETH'S THREE-YEAR-OLD SETS SEAL UPON HIS FAME AT YONKERS.

Wins the Empire City Handicap Under Circumstance That Stamp Him a High-Class Colt-Incidentally Reduces Track Record.

New York, July 23.—S. C. Hildreth's Dalmatian proved himself the greatest three-year-old of 1910 when in winning the Empire City Handicap today he ran a mile and an eighth in 1:51, which established a new track record. His race was remarkable from the fact that, giving away great lumps of weight, he was pinched off shortly after the start to a bad last through the backstretch, and then was repeatedly cut off when Archibald tried to force him through on the rail. He made his winning run on the stretch turn, where he circled the leaders to win going away and easily by almost three lengths. Mr. Hildreth added Hampton Court as his running mate and Fitz Herbert was withdrawn. Hampton Court, though he was never the actual leader, forced a fast pace, the first five-eighths being run in 593. At the end Stanley Fay saved the place from Hanbridge, which had been showing the way in the early stages.

The Waksefield Stakes, for two-year-olds, resulted in a great surprise when Pharoah, comparatively unknown and the longest priced one in the field, lasted to nose out Amalfi and Danger Mark.

Rose Queen was winner of the sprint handicap, in which she ran a greatly improved race over her recent effort. The race for gentlemen riders went to Faulliess, ridden by E. C. Cowdin, Jr. This one was the outsider of the field, with plenty of 20 to 1 offered against her chances. Timer Barretto only took the time for a mile in this race.

After Hectagon had been beaten in the opening race he was claimed by Thomas Newton for $960. In the last race, which went to Noon, Gliding Belle was held at the post with a twitch and when the barrier was released she went into the air and lost all chance.

LEXINGTON STAKE NOMINATIONS.

Camden Handicap for 1911 Attracts 31 Entries 218 Nominations for Breeders' Futurity.

Lexington, Ky., July 23.—The Camden Handicap, at one mile and a quarter, for three-year-olds and upward, with $1,000 added and a silver cup valued at $250 to be presented to the owner of the winner, to be run during the 1911 spring meeting of the Kentucky Association, received 31 entries at the closing, July 1. It is to be reopened November 1, when Secretary 6. D. Wilson says he expects the number to be doubled. These have been entered: Round the World, Governor Gray, Leopold, The Royal Prince, Tahoe, Cisko, Jack Denman, Oracle, La U Mexican, Enyoc, Ramazan, Messenger Boy, Labold, Ella Bryson, all two-year-olds now; the three-year-olds, Joe Morris, Donau, Boola Boola, F. Grainger and Ben Prior; Woolwinder, Wintergreen, Miami, Friend Harry, now four year-olds; the five-year-olds, Pinkola, Boggs and Hanbridge, and Green Seal, a six-year-old. For each of these entries a payment of $10 was required and $20 will be exacted for each of those coming in November 1. For those left in after January 1 next a further payment of $20 each will be required and starters will pay $75 additional. The weights are to be announced April 15 next.

In addition to the Camden Handicap, two important stakes will be decided at the local meeting Lext spring—the Breeders' Futurity, for two-year-olds, at half a mile, and the Blue Grass Stakes, for three-year-olds, at one mile and an eighth. These stakes were closed last summer, at which time the Breeders' Futurity received 272 nominations at $5 each, of which 170 made the second payment of $15 each Juluary 1 last. The third payment of $25 will be due January 1 next and starters will pay $75 each additional. It is estimated that this race will be worth approximately $8,000. The Blue Grass Stakes, like the Breeders' Futurity, is of the value of $1,500 added, and it closed with $3 nominations at $10 cach. The second payment of $15 cach will be due November 15, and the third payment of $25 cach additions.

of $1.500 added, and it closed with 83 nominations at $10 each. The second payment of $15 each will be due November 15, and the third payment of $25 will come March 1 next, with an additional $100 from each of the starters. Of the eligibles to this stake the following have won as two-year-olds this year: Governor Gray, Golden Egg, Meridian, County Tax, Bobby Boyer, Mr. Golightly, Discontent, Sebago, Premier, Stare, Forehead, Little Oasis and Volthorpe.

stake the following have won as two-year-olds this year: Governor Gray, Golden Egg, Meridian, County Tax, Robby Boyer, Mr. Golightly, Discontent, Sebago, Premier, Stare, Forehead, Little Oasis and Voltiorpe.

The Breeders' Futurity for 1912, which closed with the Camden Handicap July 1, received 218 nominations at $5 each. The conditions for this race are somewhat different from those of next spring's Futurity. In the first place the distance is to be four and one-half furlongs. This change was made to avoid the necessity of starting a big field of youngsters on the narrow portion of the track at the half-mile ground, which is in close proximity to the turn. The race also carries two consolation purses of $500 added by the Kentucky Association, for eligibles that are non-starters and non-money winners, one being for colts and the other for fillies and geldings. In addition to 70 per cent, of the total value of the stakes, the winning horse is to have a cup donated by C. L. Harrison, who won the first running of the Breeders' Futurity last spring with the good filly, Housemaid. The next payment to this stake will be $10 January 1, 1912, with $75 additional from each of the starters.

The largest nominator to the Breeders' Futurity for 1912 is Irving H. Wheatcroft, owner of the St. James Stud. He names twenty sons and daughters of Cesarion and Yorkshire Lad that are now running at the sides of their dans on Oakwood Farm. Johnson N. THE RACING OF AMERICAN HORSES IN ENGLAND

On May 21 Daily Racing Form published a table showing the positions of all American-bred horses that had won or been placed in races in England from the beginning of flat racing at Lincoln in March to May 6: The death of King Edward brought about a cessation of racing for close to three weeks in May. The table here presented gives the placings of American horses from the resumption of racing up to and including that of July 8 at Lingfield and Haydock Park. Horses in the possession of English owners, as well as those in American ownership, are included. In all, the showing is one creditable to our thoroughbreds and includes the winning of some important events. Similar tables will be published from time to time as the English racing season progresses.

RACING VENTURE AT CHARLESTON.

Modern Plant to be Erected at Cost of $250,000 for Meeting in 1911.

Cincinnati, O., July 23.—Advices from the south from an authoritative source tend to eliminate all deubt regarding the building of a race track in Charleston, S. C. Those having the project in contemplation have purchased a large tract of land and will begin the preliminaries next week looking to the creetion of an up-to-date racing plant. That the track is not to be of the slap-dash variety is evidenced by the fact that the promoters of the venture have announced their intention of expending $250,000 to make the plant complete in every detail. Besides a substantial grandstand, paddock and betting ring, accomodations for 1,000 horses will be built. The stables will be substantial and modern. The track itself will be a regulation circular mile with a seven-eighths chute, also a three-eighths straight-raw itself will be a regulation circular mile with a seven-eighths chute, also a three-eighths straight-away for two-year-olds. The site on which the track is to be built will be readily accessible from every part of the city and will be readily accessible from every part of the city and will be readily accessible from every incomplete the track, the main aim being to have it thorough in detail. It is unlikely that the builders will finish work on it until some time next february and, according to present arrangements, the inaugural meeting of 30 days will be held immediately following the close of the season at Jacksonville or maybe a little earlier.

The promoters have ample capital, are thoroughly responsible and have had plenty of experience in race track management. It will be the aim of the management to give liberal purses, also a number of stakes, which will insure the presence of horses of good calibre. Charleston enjoys advantages over other southern cities from the fact that it is conveniently accessible to New York, while Savannah, Atlanta and Jacksonville are nearby points that are counted upon to contribute materially to the patronage. The betting laws of the state are not stringent—on the courtary fle

Additional Disciplinary Action Marks Final Day, Jockey Palms and Former Jockey Thompson Being Involved.

Detroit, Mich., July 23.—The best meeting ever, held at the Windsor course came to a close with the running of today's program. The crowds that have been turning out have been simply marvelous and speculation has been keen during the entire meeting. I hirty-five bookmakers cut in this afternoon, representing a record number for Windsor. Judges Price and Nelson have been active, and especially so during the last two days.

BREAKING OF YEARLINGS BEGINS.

BREAKING OF YEARLINGS BEGINS.

Lexington, Ky., July 23.—The breaking of yearlings at the Kentucky Association track was begun this week. The first to come in were twenty-six from Johnson N. Camden's Hartland Stud. They are in charge of William Overton, the colored trainer, and when they are broken they will be turned over to John O. Keene, who has a half interest in them and who will race them in Mr. Camden's colors next season. These youngsters were included in the deal that Mr. Camden made with Mr. Keene upon the latter's return from California last spring. They are for the greater part by Mazagan and are probably the best-appearing collection of young horses that the Hartland Stud has yet turned out. Messrs. Camden and Keene are expecting them to show up well in racing.

When they were forming their partnership last spring Mr. Keene said to Mr. Camden: "I cannot say that I have a particular fancy for any of your older horses, and it is my opinion that we will be exceedingly lucky to pay the shipping bills with them this year, but those yearlings are a grand lot and unless I've gone back in my judgment of thoroughbreds they'il reimburse us for any losses that may be sustained in 1910."

S. K. Hughes has taken up half a dozen youngsters and W. J. Young has had four come in. John Rodegap has up five or six and other trainers are making preparations to take up a number about August 1. Ordinarily they do not begin breaking yearlings here as early as July, but this year an unusual number of trainers are summering at home because of the curtalinent of racing. A number of the older horses now at the local track will participates in the racing programmed at several of the fairs to be held in Kentucky during the months of August and September. The purses are small, but the trainers regard them as just so much picked up. Every little bit helps nowadays.

BUTTE MEETING OPENS AUSPICIOUSLY.

Butte, Mont., July 23.—The thirty-days meeting of the Butte Jockey Club opened this afternoon under auspicious circumstances and the indications are that the meeting will be the most successful in the history of the sport locally. There are close to 400 horses already at the track, including about 100 which have recently come from Victoria and upward of 200 more are to come from Salt Lake City. With few exceptions all the better horses that raced at Buena Vista will be here. Practically all the followers of the sport have come here from Salt Lake City. Martin Nathanson, of Chicago, is presiding judge and racing secretary of the meeting.

GOSSIP FROM KENTUCKY SOURCES.

GOSSIP FROM KENTUCKY SOURCES.

Louisville, Ky., July 23.—W. E. Bidwell, secretary of the Kentucky State Racing Commission, reports that Jockey D. Hall's license has been revoked by that body owing to a suspension hanging over him due to a ruling made on a California track of which the commission was ignorant when it issued him the license under which he rode at Latonia.

Last Saturday at Lexington the commission, having come into evidence of Hall's turf standing in California, ordered the rider's license revoked until he is again in good standing with the California Jockey Club. Secretary Bidwell has notified the Canadian tracks of the commission's action in the case of Hall. The jockey is supposed to have gone north when Latonia closed.

G. W. J. Bissell, over whose stable trainer Wayne Lewis presides, will ship to Mexico this year when fall racing in Kentucky ceases, Mr. Bissell probably will buy several yearling colts to add to his string now in charge of trainer Lewis at the local track. fall racing in Kentucky ceases, Mr. Bissell probably will buy several yearling colts to add to his string now in charge of trainer Lewis at the local track. He has only four of his own breeding and they are all fillies by an untried horse. H. P. Headley has a yearling by Ornament that the Pittsburg turfman and his trainer think will make a useful colt, but the Kentucky breeder wants $1.500 for the youngster, which they consider a bit high.

A turfman from Lexington brings the information that J. N. Camden has sent all his yearlings to the Kentucky Association track to be broken, and that the colored trainer. Will Overton, now has the big bunch in charge. There are thirty colts and fillies in the collection and breeder Camden regards them as the best band he has yet raised at Hartland Stud. Some of them will be sold during the coming fall, but enough will be retained to make the two-year-old division of Mr. Camden's stable in 1911 the most pretentious he has yet sent to the races. Mr. Camden has set his heart on winning a Breeders' Futurity with one of his Hartland Stud-bred youngsters.

Reports from Tennessee are to the effect that jockey George Glasner, who laid unconscious for so long in the Covington hospital, after Tritoma fell attatonia with him, has improved greatly physically, but that his moid is sadly impaired. The information is to the effect that Glasner will never ride another race. He is said to be well fixed financially, a fact that his most intimate friends were not aware of. He seems to have had a prosperous season last winter in Florida.

Harry Carr, who acted last winter as track superintendent at Juarez, Mexico, is very sick at his home near Churchill Downs with lung trouble and his condition is giving his friends much concern.

Trainer Will Grater has reached Churchill Downs from Latonia with Lexoline and Robert Powell. The latter has completely recovered from his fall during the recent Latonia meeting and Grater has knitched his condition is giving his friends much concern.

Trainer Will Gr

Sir Huon, George 3. Long swinner.

When trainer Brooks reaches here he will take up the yearlings owned by Mr. Schulte and break them at the local track. From all accounts they are a promising bunch of youngsters.

Jockey Ramsey, who is under contract to William Walker, has disappeared.

Frank Brady will ship a couple of horses from onkers to Fort Erie this week. William R. Griffin will ship eight horses to Sara-oga Springs at the close of the Yonkers meeting.

The recent fast time at Empire City is the result of special attention devoted to the surfacing of the track by Lyman H. Davis, who is particularly efficient as a track conditioner.

Agility, the two-year-old that won at Yonkers Thursday in the green and white silks of Pat Dunne, is a robust filly. Fred Hanlon, who trains Mr. Dunne's borses, says the daughter of Hamburg-Monadour is the sturdlest filly he ever handled.

The sprinter, King Cobalt, owned by Grant Hugh Browne, is again taking jogging exercise at Belmont Park. The brown son of Cesarion bowed a tenden last spring. Trainer Ed Nash blistered the balleg and it is expected he will stand training.

E. Dugan is slowly recovering from an attack of pneumonta and will not be able to ride for a considerable while. The Jockey Club, meanwhile, has taken no action on the boy's suspension for rough riding imposed by the stewards at Sheepshead Bay, which is taken to mean that Dugan may not be allowed to ride again this year.

Went to post at 3:49. At post 2 minutes. Start good. Won driving; second and third the same. DALMATIAN was pinched off on the first turn and pocketed on the backstretch, but moved up rapidly on the turn and came around on the outside in the stretch and, finishing with a tremendous rush, got up to win drawing clear. STANLEY FAY regained his best form with a rush and, running forwardly all the way, made a fast and game finish. HANBRIDGE soon ran into the lead and made the running at a terific pace and hung on resolutely to the end. EVERETT finished with a rush. HAMPTON COURT ran in closest pursuit to the stretch and tired. AFACHE showed early speed.

SOME MEN'S LUCK WITH BETS. Rails

Winning Tips on the Races Handed Out Under Un usual Circumstances-Revenge Scheme Fails.

"Fate plays some funny pranks," said the old sport in an armchair at the Hoffman House one evening recently, "but I never saw it illustrated better than in the late '70s when I was doing the western racing circuits with a couple of smart trotters, a quarter horse of more than ordinary quality and a simon pure thoroughbred that could run heats at a mile, two miles or even four miles if there was money in sight.

ern racing circuits with a couple of smart trotters, a simon pure thoroughbred that could run heats at a mile, two miles or even four miles if there was money in sight.

"We had been through Michigan and had won some pretty good bets on one of our trotters and when we camped at Cleveland we thought that Ohio would be as kind as Michigan, as our horses were all ready and they were better than they had shown at Detroit and Jackson. Among the first men we met in Cleveland was a friend of John D. Rockefeller's who was smooth enough for flash company on any track when it came to getting the money. "He was one of those who had been persuaded that there would be dividends in the petroleum business, and all the money he made in the livery stable game he put into the enterprise Rockefeller and his associates had just formed. He had a few pretty good horses at his stable in town and he conducted at the track a boarding kitchen, where a majority of the help employed by the various trainers were fed. We hadn't known him more than twenty-four hours before he was urging my partner and myself to come around and drive some of his horses whenever we wanted to go to Glenville.

"They're simply eating their heads off, and it costs money to hire men to exercise them,' was the way, he put it.

"So we drove them the two weeks we were there. We won some races and the stable keeper was in on everything we had. When it came time to pack up and depart for Buffalo and the east we were handed a bill that made us sit up and take notice. We had been charged more than the usual fee every time we drove one of the horses, and if we had fed our men downtown at one of the fashionable places we couldn't have been set back much more. I was particularly bot under the collar and carried the bill to the old fellow.

"How about this bill?" I demanded.

"Why, it's all right, isn't it?" was his reply after scanning it through his glasses first and then scrutinizing me over the top of them.

"I gulped down my wrath, but then and there made a mental vow t

'Old Tom. What old Tom?' I asked, smelling touse at once, for my man was from Cleveland a mouse at once, log my also.

"Old Tom. What old Tom? I asked, smelling a mouse at once, for my man was from Cleveland also.
"'Why, Old Tom—' remarked the trotting horse driver.
"It was my dear old friend the livery man, all right, and I had hard work to keep from laughing in his face. It was so easy to see what was going to happen to Old Tom. I thought that the fates were very kind to me the very next day when my acquaintance said he had to go up the state for a couple of days and would I send a few good things to Cleveland in his name?
"Would I? I would be delighted and I set my plans to make Old Tom squirm. There was a heat race on for the next day and when the entries came out I began operations.
"There was a cipher code that would suit any requirements and I doped out the information that there was going to be something doing in this event and that I would wire him bets that night. On paper it looked like a cinch for a real smart horse called Mecca, but about ten o'clock I wired my man that the race had been fixed for Big Sandy and for him to put down a clunk of money on that horse. Early next morning I made it stronger, and Just before the horses went to the post I shot another tip to him saying that it was as good as in.

"Well, Mecca won the first heat in a walk, and having started a redhot favorite the odds shortened up for fair. Old Tom was in the poolroom at Cleveland and he wired me anxiously saying that the race looked queer to him considering my information. I sent another hot line saying never to stop, and what do you think happened? Nothing but this: Mecca broke down and Big Sandy won the heat in a trot, as our English cousins would say.

"He won the next heat, too, and I was made enough to bife a nall in two, Here was my man delivered into my hands with the conditions made to order, and in steps fate and upsets my game!

"Some men are born to have money, and Old Tom was one of them. I gave up trying to square accounts with him after that. To this day my trotting horse acquaintances regard my picking of Big Bandy as the crow board.

"Oh, thank you, thank you, Mr. Pulsifer. I got 60 to 1 and I've won $6,000 on your tip." he gasped.

"Pulsifer was having his customary dry smoke, and he almost swallowed the cigar, but he finally managed to say something about being dammed if he ever saw such luck. I guess that was another case of fate."

"The best hunch in the world," broke in another is when it is the control of the fate."

is when you want to call a bet off and

"The best hunch in the world," broke in another listener, "is when you want to call a bet off and the layer refuses to shift it to another horse. That's the time you avant to go the limit on your original horse, for in nine out of ten instances the horse you bet on originally wins.

"It's a sign of weakness when anybody can come along with a story of fast work or feed box information and shift you. I've seen it work out more times than I can tell. Of course there are exceptions to the rule, such as a horse being lame or coughing or something like that, but in the main your first choice is right. When Mr. Layer gets a grouch and doesn't want to take it off, pass on to the next fellow where your credit is good and paste him one on the eye for luck."

"The way to beat the races, in my opinion," commented a quiet-looking man who had paid close attactics of the wife of a friend of mine. She goes to the races but seldom, just often enough to keep up her interest in the game, and she always says that the combination of horses, music and the crowd was what won her allegiance, though, of course, the zest of winning an occasional wager was not a detriment by any means,
"I'll never forget her first wager. It was in the zest of winning an occasional wager was not a detri-ment by any means.

"I'll never forget her first wager. It was in the '80s and I had a position at the track that paid me well. One day as I was preparing to leave for the course my wife handed me a twenty-dollar bill. saving that our friend had left it that morning with instructions to put it on a horse called Harved in the Lawyriew Handicap that afternoon at Graves-end.

instructions to put if on a horse called Harved in the Lawnview Handicap that afternoon at Gravesend.

"I laughed at this, for Harved had only got out of the maiden class the week before and his opponents in the Lawnview were two such splendid performers as Richmond, owned by the Dwyers, and Favor, from the barn of Green B. Morris. I wanted my wife to keep the money and return it, but she demarred and I took it and started for the track.

"The commission was about forgotten and I was coming out of the paddock when Charlie Reed, the philosopher of the turf, happened along. I told the old gentleman of the twenty dollars and remarked that it would be a lot of fun to hand it back to her the next day. Taking me by the arm the old man raid gravely:

"'Souny, if somebody gives you money to bet on a bay ox beating the best thoroughbred in the world put the money on the bay ox," I started for the ring on the run and found 60 to I and Sol gave me a ticket reading '$1,200 to $20 Harved.' There were but three starters. McLaughlin on Richmond, Fitzpatrick on Favor and a midget named Osler on Harved. It was conceded that the race would be good and very close, as Richmond and Favor, both four-year-olds, were very evenly matched and they had the best ridgers in America at that time on their backs.

"When Caldwell dropped the flag Flitz and Jimmy rode knee to knee, watching each other intentily. Fitz had waiting orders and McLaughilin refused to make pace. Osler accordingly shot to the front with the featherweighted Harved, and going up the backstretch he was a dozen lengths in the lead. The others realized at the end of the stretch that the leader wasn't coming back appreciably and they set sail.

"It was a breakneck pace around the upper turn and through the stretch, and Favor stopped first.

t was a breakneck pace around the upper turn through the stretch, and Favor stopped first.

Richmond, under the lash, wore down Harved's lead inch by inch, but the distance to be overcome was too great and Harved won by a neck amidst the wildest excitement.

"The blunder on the part of the crack jockeys had made the outsider win. I was in a daze and a cold chill ran up and down my spine when I realized the close call I had had. The soundness of Charlic Reid's advice came home to me with convincing force as I tucked away $1,220 in my trousers pocket.

"That evening when the lady and her husband called and I had counted her winnings into her lap, I said:

"Now that it's all over, tell us how you doped it coul."

Now that it's all over, tell us how you doped

" 'Now that It's all over, ten us it out."
" 'Why, I dreamed that he won. I heard shouting, saw the populace much excited and distinctly heard the cry 'Harved,' or as I thought, 'Harvard wins,' but upon looking at the entries I saw that the horse's name was Harved. That's all.' '"—New York Sun.

EPSOM DERBY JOKES AND RINGERS.

Something of the Freaks That Have Run in the Greatest Race in History.

As a high-class turf event the English Derby is admittedly without a peer, and yet this aristocratic environment has failed to save it entirely from the ranks of the practical jokers and other fakers of the equine world. At various times some grotesque specimens of the racing animal have been seen carrying silk at Epsom, often in the way of a joke, or at other times because the owner wanted to win a bet, or perhaps boest that he once had a Derby candidate.

Others who have entered horses are those with some theory to demonstrate, or because they wanted to bring some fad to public notice. One of the most recent steeds with the theory object in view was Azote, one of the starters two years ago. This horse was fed entirely on milk, the theory among those who entered him being that he would do as well as the high-mettled three-year-old fed according to the newest training method. Whether Azote would have done better had he had enough oats is not known, but he was two hundred yards behind when the winner was shooting by the judges' box.

One of the most famous joke horses that ever went to the post for the race was Cockney Boy, which tried his speed in 1870. Not alone was thorse lacking in anything at all like speed, but his appearance was still over each other with laughter at the sight of the queer-looking aspirant for blue ribbon honors. The commotion caused by the looks of Cockney Boy in the enclosure was nothing to what happened when he paraded with the horses before the grandstand. Then the ralibirds and other sharps got a look at him and the jeering and shouts of derision about him could be plainly heard at the other side of, the course.

When they cantered to the starting post the cry of "cat's meat, cat's meat," was raised, but this did not prevent Cockney Boy from breaking away with the others when the flag fell. He stayed with the crowd for a stride or two, when he gradually fell to the rear, and when Kingcraft, the winner, was at the finish, Cockney Boy was fully half a mile away and running at his best.

It was notable that in the same race Muster, owned by Lord Wilton, was such a rank outsider that 30 to 1 could be obtained about him for the place, was the favorite and he was no better than fourth. After the horses returned to the paddock Cockney Boy's owner came in for a lot of chaff, and a friend was the favorite and he was no better than fourth. After the horses had "What on carth made you start such a wretch?" "Well, why shouldn't 1?" a bead and a tail. hasn't be once has you four legs, at lead and a tail. hasn't he once has you four legs, at lead and a tail. hasn't he once has you four legs, at lead and a tail. hasn't has you as the others till 1 to know he wasn't as good as the others till 1 and him?" It was not four legs, at lead and the till hasn't had been and the till hasn't had been and the famous joke horse known as the Hopeful Dutchman. That occasion was made memorable by the historic duce between Harvester and St. Gatien, when the stake being divided. Harvester was at a trifle shorter fagure in the betting, while the favorite was start to the Hopeful Dutchman, it is better to give the story as told by a man who bet on him and taken advantage of the fineness of the weather to give the story as told by a man who bet on him and taken advantage of the fineness of the weather to give the story as told by a man who bet on him and taken advantage of the fineness of the weather to give the story as told by a man who bet on him and taken advantage of the fineness of the weather to give the story as told by a man who bet on him and taken advantage of the fineness of the weather to give the story as told by a man who bet on him and they lond the story as told by a man who bet on him and taken advantage of the fineness of the weather to give the story as told by a man who bet on him and taken advantage of the fineness of the weather to give the story as t miracle that he dld not go to the post a hot favorite. Nobody could blame me for at that moment figuring what a time I was going to have spending the $5.000 which I considered then and there was as good as mine. I nearly forgot to mention that the Mickelham candidate was down on the card as W. M. Holloway's The Hopeful Dutchman, bay colt, by Ethus—Hopeful Duchess; jockey, G. Marks. a lad entirely unknown to fame; colors, white jacket, black sleeves and cap. Neither could anybody learn the name of his trainer. "At the post there was some little delay, but after they broke away The Hopeful Dutchman fell behind at every stride and raced up the hill bringing up the rear. Gradually they left him, of course, and sailing down by the Bushes he was 200 yards behind. The farther hey went the farther he fell to the rear, and as St. Gatien and Harvester flew by the judges' box neck and neck The Hopeful had just reached Tattenham Corner. He was never destined to finish, for the crowd pouring out on the greensward from either side of the rails closed in upon him and he had to pull up and walk back to the enclosure. Never was there a greater imposture or a more ignominious exhibition. He could not beat a selling plater.

"About a week after the race I again found my way to Banstead and dropped in at the inn to hear what the landlord had to say about his tip. I found him considerably crestfallen and there was indeed a subdued air about the village. When I asked the landlord about the display made by the Dutchman: "We were all fair took in,' he said, 'and we dropped a pot of money, I don't mind telling you, sir, 'ow it was. The Derby distance is a mile and a 'aif course; but they'd made a blunder some'ow, and it were over what they took to be a mile and a 'aif course; but they'd made a blunder some'ow, and it were over what they took to be a mile and a 'aif course; but they'd made a blunder some'ow, and it were over what they took to be a mile and a 'aif course; but they'd made a blunder some'ow, and it were over what they took

MARCUS DALY'S BIG COUP ON OGDEN.

Copper King Credited with Cleaning Up $180,000 in Wagers When His Colt Won Futurity of 1896.

Every once in a while newspaper correspondents at various racing centers send out information of a betting coup alleged to have been made on this or that horse. In former days, operations of the sort referred to would hardly have been dignified by the employment of the term coup. The latter-day "coup" is a puny affair when compared with some of the gigantic operations of the past. Marcus Daly figured in one of the greatest "clean-ups" on any track when he won the Futurity with Ogden. John S. Campbell, who previously had been trainer for the Beverwyck Stable, A. F. Walcott and Hankins & Johnson, engineered it.

In 1895-96, Campbell wintered a portion of the Daly stable in Montana at the Anaconda race track, where at times it was thirty and forty degrees below zero, but a dry, bracing climate, and the colts and fillies became enured to the arctic-like temperature.

Among the yearlings was an imported colt, Ogden, low zero, but a dry, bracing climate, and the colis and fillies became enured to the arctic-like temperature.

Among the yearlings was an imported colt, Ogden, that in his trials was so slow that his trainer tried to sell him for $250, without success. By the next May, however, this two-year-old had come on at a great rate, and Campbell sent word to Marcus Daly that they had a youngster above the average in the imported colt. At the June meeting in Butte, Ogden made his debut, running second to a stable companion, Jim Blackburn. Two other times, once at Butte and once at Anaconda, he repeated this performance. This was to save penalties for the Futurity, for which trainer Campbell and owner Daly already were planning the biggest coup of the century with Ogden.

Ogden then was entered in a race at Anaconda against the two fastest matured horses in the northwest at five furlongs, they to concede the two-year-old the scale weight. Ogden beat them both. In the middle of July Ogden was sent from Montana to Saratoga, Campbell preferring to give him his work for the Futurity at the Spa. There was no racing that summer (1896) at Saratoga, and the track was virtually deserted, which gave Campbell the opportunity to work the colt almost without observation, and after resting the youngster after his 2,500-mile trip, he sent him along in earnest, In spite of the slim possibility of any "Peeping Toms" getting on to Ogden's work, Campbell was cautious about his trials, which took place in the early morning and the tractors. The tree was set for slim possibility of any "Peeping Toms" getting on to Ogden's work, Campbell was cautious about his trials, which took place in the early morning and late evening.

Three days before the Futurity, Ogden was still at Saratoga. That morning at 4 o'clock was set for a last trial of the colt, and Campbell and jockey "Doc" Tuberville, who was to ride Ogden in the Futurity, were at the track before daybreak. Madge D., a three-year-old of proven speed, was selected as Ogden's companion in the trial, and she carried 110 pounds, while the two-year-old carried 125. The pair were started in the chute, and Madge D, took the lead for the first quarter in 233 seconds. But Ogden was lapped on his older antagonist, and at the half, run in 473, showed half a length in front. The rest of the way Ogden held the three-year-old safe and won the trial by two lengths in 1:131 for the six furlongs. No one but the stable neople and bluff old Puckett, the track superintendent, saw the trial, and all hands were much impressed.

Ogden and his stable companions were shipped south that day and joined the rest of Daly's horses at Sheepshead Bay, where Matt Byrnes was in charge. The latter had Scottish Chieftain in the Futurity, with the crack Jockey, Fred Taral, up, and when he saw Ogden, which was rather undersized, chaffed Campbell a good bit about his little brown "broncho."

But when Campbell pinned him down to a bet of a suit of clothes that his "broncho" would come in ahead of Scottish Chieftain, the man who had trained three Shurfana winners, began to think Campbell had something "on" him. After the race he was sure of it. Such a crowd was at Sheepshead Bay on the day of the Futurity that it was a matter of difficulty to get inside the betting ring, except it intervals on the track side of the enclosure. So when Marcus Daly's commissioners, John E. McDonald and two others, started in with $10,000 each to back Ogden, they had trouble from the ontset.

Ornament (T. Sloan) was favorite at 2 to 1, with Keene's Rhodesia (Simms) rated as sec Griffin), Newsgatherer (Ballard) and others at long odds.

Nailing several layers out of line for moderate amounts at 12 and 15 to 1 on the Daly pair, the commissioners butted their way toward the center of the ring, where the principal operators were and got several thousand dollars on at 10 to 1. In one or two cases, where moderate prices were laid on the Daly pair for a place, they got 10 to 1 on Ogden for the place. On down the ring, here and there, as well as the crowd would let them, hurried the Daly commissioners, betting $500 here, a $1,000 there, until 8 to 1 was the best price obtainable. They accepted that price, and were taking 7 to 1 when the cry of "they're off" stopped further business.

there, until 8 to 1 was the best price obtainable. They accepted that price, and were taking 7 to 1 when the cry of "they're off" stopped further business.

Ornament, the kicker, had, as usual, raised a circus at the post, following this colt and that trying to kick them, in spite of all his jockey, Tod Sloan, could do. Twice he missed Ogden by a small margin and Tuberville was kept busier watching the vicious chestnut than the starter. When they dig et off, it was Ornament and Ogden all the way, the Daly "copper, silver sleeves and green cap" and the brown colt from Montana drawing away from his bluegrass-bred antagonist in the last furlong, and winning by a length and a half in 1:10, a new record for the old Futurity course.

Rodermond was a close third and Rhodesia fourth. By mistake of the judges, the number of Scottish Chieftain was first hung up as the winner. And trainer Matt Byrnes immediately grabbed his fellowtrainer, Campbell, and lifted him in the air, triumphantly claiming, "me for that suit, Johnny," But when in an instant Scottish Chieftain's number was taken down and Ogden's hoisted in its place, the trainer of Pontiae, Salvator and Montana dropped Campbell like a hot potato amid roars of laughter from the bystanders.

Daly's commissioners were not able, owing to the crowd, to get down all of the $30,000 they had planned to bet. But jointly they placed enough of the big wager to win $180,000. This was probably the heaviest betting coup ever made by an American turfman on a home track—and had Mr. Daly's commissioners been able to get all his noney down, the coup would have seen able to get all his money down, the coup would have amounted to close to a quarter of a million. But the wagers and value of the purse would have been considered well sold at $250. Jockey Tuberville received a $5,000 fee and Marcus Daly treated all his employees with princely liberality.
